Challenges

- ❖ Vivienne Westwood Autumn-Winter 2017/2018 order was received during the immediate period after severe drought and water scarcity. The period was notable by an acute shortage of supplies such as maize, a staple food in Kenya. Lack of water also led to the outbreak of cholera which by July 2017 had claimed four lives. Due to the epidemic it was a major concern for many of the artisans working on the order, although no case of shortage of food or death was reported.
- ❖ In addition, Kenya was gearing up for the general elections which will be held in the second week of August 2017. Campaigns were rife at the time of completing the order. This heightened ethnic tension among artisans.

Income, saving and investment

The workers received a fair and decent wage throughout the order. Many of the artisans were able to save and invest their earnings into education, health, housing and various other commodities, increasing their opportunities and contributing towards poverty alleviation.

- ❖ Majority of the participants were permanent employees of Artisan Fashion who enjoy a regular salary sufficient to meet their basic needs and which provides some discretionary income. They also had other fringe benefits such as social securities offered by the company.

- ❖ 48% were able to save while 22% invested their income. Investment was primarily in small businesses, education, training and housing.
- ❖ 55% of workers were able to pay all or most of the tuition fees for children.

Skill development

To complete the order, the artisans improved and expanded their skillsets and received training. This contributed to their income-generating prospects.

- ❖ 69% of the participants received training which contributed to improving their skills.
- ❖ 12% of the artisans who invested their income said that they invested in training and skill development with the proceeds from the order while 15% (mainly from brass casting group) used part of their income to invest in refurbishing their workshop in order to improve working conditions.

Health and nutrition

Receiving a regular income enabled artisans to maintain their health due to a regular meal and improved medical care access, subsequently enhancing their quality of life.

- ❖ 70% of participants were able to provide a regular and healthy meal for their household. Even though drought was experienced in most parts of the country only 3% of workers stated that they deliberately skipped meals in order to save for the future.

Social well-being

For most artisans, working on the order provided them with a sense of social well-being and improved their life satisfaction. Not only did the artisans work together to complete the order, but they worked as a community to discuss their daily needs and solve pressing social issues. This empowered women and improved development, consistent with the aims of EFI.

- ❖ 100% of the artisans said they felt more confident in their daily tasks and activities as a result of the order.
- ❖ 100% of the artisans felt proud of the work they had produced.
- ❖ 100% of the artisans were able to provide for their immediate families with the income from the order.
- ❖ The Vivienne Westwood Autumn-Winter 2017/2018 order had an overall satisfaction rate of 100%.

Meet the artisans

Benta Awuor, 39 years old

I am a mother of nine children. I participated on the Vivienne Westwood AW 17/18 order as a brass caster working at the furnace. Brass casting is a tough work for a woman, however I enjoy doing it as it pays very well. I used the income from the order to pay school fees and to feed my family.

Lenny Achieng, 27 years old

I am a mother of one. I worked on Vivienne Westwood's AW 17/18 order as a beader. Beading the clutch panel was really difficult at the beginning but after training my beading skills improved thus enabling me to increase my income. I used the income to buy new household utensils.

Eunice Nashipai, 32 years old

I am a single mother of one. The Vivienne Westwood AW 17/18 order gave me enough income which allowed me to buy food for my family.

Nickson Akhwale, 22 years old

I worked on the Vivienne Westwood AW 17/18 order as a preparer. Besides providing me with income the order also provided a training opportunity. I used the income to pay my rent and to support my mother.

Mini / 'fun facts' about the order

The order provided work to 67 artisans from marginalised slum areas.

The order of 1746 bags was completed by six community groups of artisans.

It took 150 minutes for nine artisans (processes include, cutting, hand screen printing, preparation, embroidery, beading, attaching accessories, tagging, cleaning stitching, quality control and finishing) to produce one complete bag.

Mini / 'fun facts' about the order

69% of artisans improved their skills through on the job training.

The order used locally sourced materials such as cotton canvas and polycotton.

33% of Vivienne Westwood autumn-winter 2017/2018 order was produced using recycled materials such as brass metals extracted from broken taps and padlocks and dhow sail materials collected from the Kenyan coast.

Conclusion

The income from the Vivienne Westwood Autumn-Winter 2017/2018 order was very crucial in terms of increasing the artisans' social resilience. Despite the many challenges emanating from the lack of supplies, political instability and ethnic tensions, the artisans who worked on the order managed to experience positive impact and cohesion as a result of work.

The report reveals that the income from the order was mainly used to meet household needs the majority of the income went to purchasing food. The fact that no artisan suffered infection due to the outbreak of cholera and the low incidences of ailment reported was an indicator that the order leveraged the efforts of the artisans to maintain a healthy status.

More about the Ethical Fashion Initiative:

The Ethical Fashion Initiative (EFI) is a flagship programme of the International Trade Centre, a joint agency of the United Nations and the World Trade Organization. EFI reduces global poverty by linking micro-producers and artisans to the international supply chain of fashion, facilitating dignified work at a fair wage. By collaborating with social enterprises, the EFI supports local creativity, female employment and empowerment and gender equality. Ultimately, this aims to reduce extreme poverty and increase the export capacities of the region in which it operates.

About: ARTISAN FASHION EPZ Ltd
